BORIS KARLOFF

"Galloway" in "The Criminal Code"

Los Angeles Examiner:

"No one who sees Boris Karloff as Galloway will forget him. He had the same role on the stage and he is excellent as the sulky, brooding prisoner who bides his time until he gets even with Gleason."

—Louella Parsons.

Life:

"While we're raving, which opportunity is not afforded often, we want to nominate Boris Karloff as the most quietly terrifying criminal we have ever seen in a prison film—which is quite a statement considering the number of 'Boo!' faces that have been assembled for jail scenes during the past year. Mr. Karloff's menacing figure and deep, hollow voice will cause delightful shivers to romp up and down your spinal cord."

—Harry Evans.

Evening Express:

"Boris Karloff, the sinister Galloway—a killer made by prison tactics, by brutality. Karloff will win an exclusive place in pictures with his work. He is superb."

—Jimmy Starr.

JANE KEITH

FREE LANCING

New York Telegram, Star of the future in "The Sea Wolf": "Jane Keith as the girl gives every promise of being a star one day and if she isn't it will not be her fault. She has charm, poise, beauty, screen personality, an attractive voice and ability. Now what more could you ask?"

Mae Tinee, Chicago Examiner, "The Sea Wolf": "The greatest beauty of the picture lies in the person and charm of the heroine, slim blonde thing, with shadowed eyes and a silken voice. She is a splendid actress as well."

DINA SMIRNOVA

Los Angeles Record, Lynn Starling, "Cup of Sugar."
"Here is a woman who has everything, animal vitality, great charm, intelligence above the average and all the grace necessary to convince an audience that she was a danger to reckon with. Dina Smirnova knows that road from a country that has produced the world's greatest ballet as well as some of the greatest theatres and actors."

San Francisco Examiner, Ethel Bogardus:
"When that flame of a woman darts upon the stage you know that here is an actress and she doesn't let you forget it."

Los Angeles Examiner, Gregory Goss:
"Dina Smirnova sketches glamorously a Russian adventuress and keeps you spellbound. Here is an actress."

"Bobbie" in the prologue to Ernest B. Schoedsack's "Rango"—Paramount

"The human interest occurs mostly in those situations in which Douglas Scott, a boy about four years old, appears; he is lovable, free from self-consciousness, and acts like a veteran."
—from review of "Reno," Harrison's Reports, New York.

"Particularly outstanding is the work of Douglas Scott, a boy of four years, who reads lines like a veteran."
—from review of "Night Work" by Porter, Los Angeles Examiner.

"The honors of the picture, however, go to Douglas Scott, a kid who has all the elements of being a trouper. This child of about four or five years is ready and in a class by himself for either laugh getting or serious parts. His dialogue reading is intelligent and finished, and his voice mikes a million."
—from review of "Night Work" by Jacobs, Los Angeles "Inside Facts."

NO NEED TO FINISH THE WINTER IN FURS THAT NEED ATTENTION

SMALL rips soon grow into big ones. Fur that becomes matted wears out quickly and should be cleaned...and cleaned by a furrier. A fur that is passe in style should be remodeled, perhaps into a smart jacquette, so popular right now. +-+-+ Bring your furs to us when they need renovating. You will be surprised what can be done with them at little cost. And at this season of the year we can give you very quick service.
